

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Contact: Troy Ellen Dixon
Marketing & Communications
troyellendixon@gmail.com

Aimee Berger-Girvalo Recognized by Connecticut Against Gun Violence with an A Rating

Ridgefield CT, October 11, 2018 – Aimee Berger-Girvalo, Democratic candidate for the 111th House District representing Ridgefield, has received an A rating from Connecticut Against Gun Violence (CAGV), their highest rating. An early organizer and participant in the March for Change, she consistently advocates for stronger gun safety laws including banning ghost guns and 3D-printed guns, removing guns in the case of domestic violence or the threat of domestic abuse, and limitations on the number of guns and rounds of ammunition that can be purchased at one time.

“I am honored to receive an A rating from CAGV,” says Berger-Girvalo. “I have pledged to work tirelessly to keep our families, schools and communities safe. As a mother, I am saddened that my two children are growing up with the reality that gun violence can occur in schools, churches and community spaces. They should not have to live with these fears.”

Berger-Girvalo acknowledges that responsible gun owners know that supporting the Second Amendment goes hand in hand with common-sense solutions to reduce gun violence. “Doing more to keep guns out of the hands of felons, domestic abusers and people with dangerous histories means we can make our communities safer and save lives.”

As a community leader, Berger-Girvalo is proud to stand with Moms Demand Action, as a Gun Sense Candidate, and Connecticut Against Gun Violence to encourage stricter enforcement and action on measures covering gun sales, storage and background checks. “This is the time to be vigilant about defending Connecticut’s existing gun laws. If I am elected to represent Ridgefield, I will work across party lines to ensure that Connecticut continues to be a leader in gun safety.”

To learn more about Aimee Berger-Girvalo and the issues she will address, visit Aimee4Ridgefield.com.

About Aimee Berger-Girvalo

Aimee Berger-Girvalo has lived in Ridgefield for more than 13 years. It is the town in which she has raised her children, Gracie and Austin, and found friends who have become family. She works with children and teens as a Special Educator and ABA Therapist, is a community volunteer, a director and coach for the town soccer league for children with disabilities and the co-founder of the Ridgefield chapter of the Women’s March. Her goal is to ensure our representation in Hartford is in step with the needs, values and priorities of Ridgefield today. Aimee will use her experience in business management, gained at global corporations, education, youth sports and service, to effectively represent the people of Ridgefield. For more information about the candidate, visit Aimee4Ridgefield.com.

###